THE THREE LITTLE PIGS

The Classic 1843 Folk Tale on Building Strong Foundations and Family Unity

✦ Foreword by Zinaida Jupiter, DBA ✦

Dear Reader—both Young and Grown-Up! Every classic fairy tale holds two golden keys: one for a child discovering the rules of kindness and courage, and one for parents building a warm, resilient family home.

How to Read This Book as a Family (3 Steps in 15 Minutes):
1. Pages 2–6: Read the five illustrated story sheets aloud and trace how each choice changes the heroes' path.
2. Pages 7–9: Discuss the Three Questions, play the interactive "Three Roads" game, and seal the Two Wise Vows.
3. Pages 10–12: Explore the Family Wisdom Matrix (where the winning answer always shines in the Top-Right Quadrant ★!) and the Parent's Guide.

🔑 The Golden Key of the Tale (What to Watch For)

"A straw roof is built in an hour and lost in a gust; a stone foundation takes patience and shelters the whole family."

Proverb of the Book: "A straw roof is built in an hour and lost in a gust; a stone foundation takes patience and shelters the whole family."

❧ Sheet I. Three Brothers Set Out to Build Under the Summer Sun ❧

Once upon a time three little pig brothers set out into the wide green meadow to build their own homes before autumn arrived. The youngest brother wanted to spend the sunny days dancing and playing the flute, so he tied together a hasty bundle of yellow straw by noon.

The middle brother also wished to finish quickly before evening, so he wove a light hut of dry birch twigs and pinecones, laughing at how much time he had saved.

❧ Sheet II. Patient Stone by Stone: The Elder Brother's Craft ❧

Meanwhile, the eldest brother rolled up his sleeves, mixed lime mortar, and laid heavy fieldstones row by row. When his brothers called him to chase butterflies in the clover, he wiped his brow and smiled: 'First I shall lay a deep stone foundation, hang an oak door with iron hinges, and build a warm brick chimney—then we can sing all winter without fear!'

Inside his stone house he also set a wide oak table and three cosy beds, knowing a true builder always leaves room for his family.

❧ Sheet III. The Autumn Gale and the Collapse of Straw and Twigs ❧

When cold November winds swept out of the dark woods, the hungry Grey Wolf appeared at the straw hut. With one deep breath he blew the straw away like dandelion fluff! The frightened youngest brother raced to the twig hut.

Yet two fierce gusts from the Wolf scattered the dry branches as well. Side by side, the two younger brothers sprinted up the hill toward their elder brother's stone house.

❧ Sheet IV. Behind the Oak Door: The Fortress That Stood Firm ❧

The eldest brother flung open his heavy oak door, pulled his brothers inside, and slid the wrought-iron bolt into place without a single word of reproach. Outside, the Wolf huffed and puffed until his cheeks ached—not a single stone quivered!

Growing desperate, the Wolf climbed onto the tiled roof and slid down the wide chimney, straight toward the hearth where a big copper kettle of water was steaming gently.

❧ Sheet V. Warm Broth, Three Masons, and the Lesson of the Stone ❧

Singeing the tip of his tail on the hot hearth-steam, the Wolf leaped back up the chimney and fled into the deep forest, never to trouble the meadow again.

From that day onward, the two younger brothers learned the mason's craft from their elder brother. Together they built a whole stone courtyard—proving that patient foundations and family brotherhood conquer any storm!

THE GOLDEN KEY TO THE TALE

Three Questions for a Warm Conversation with Your Child

✦ Why This Happens in Real Life ✦

"A straw roof is built in an hour and lost in a gust; a stone foundation takes patience and shelters the whole family."

1. Why did straw and twigs seem so attractive on a sunny afternoon?

When the weather is warm and easy, why are we sometimes tempted to do our homework or chores 'the straw way'?

2. How did the elder brother treat his brothers when they knocked in fear?

Did he say 'I told you so!' and lock them out, or did he open the oak door wide and share his warm hearth?

3. What is your 'Stone House' in daily life?

How does doing one task thoroughly every day build a fortress of knowledge and confidence?

THE GAME OF “THREE ROADS”

Find the Wise Choice Together and Sketch Your Victory!

Imagine This Real-Life Situation:

You have a big project or test on Friday, and on Tuesday afternoon the sun is shining and you want to glue it together in five minutes out of 'straw.'

1. Path 1 (The Straw Hut): Toss it together in five minutes without checking and hope no wind blows.

2. Path 2 (The Lonely Stone Tower): Build well for yourself, but laugh at your younger sibling when their tower falls.

3. ★ Path 3 — The Wise Choice (The Master Mason & Kind Brother!): Spend 30 focused minutes laying a solid 'stone' base today, help your sibling strengthen theirs, and then play joyfully!

❖ Creative Task: Draw the sturdy Stone Cottage with its oak door, warm chimney, and all three brothers smiling at the window!

TWO WISE VOWS OF THE READER

Golden Habits Created by This Tale

✦ First Wise Vow ✦

“Do important things the stone way”

What you build with care in sunny weather protects you when the wind rises.

✦ Second Wise Vow ✦

“A strong house always has room for family”

True strength is measured by how warmly we protect and teach those we love.

MAP OF THE FOUR PATHS

Why the Winning Answer Always Lives in the Top-Right Quadrant (★)

↑ PATIENCE & QUALITY OF FOUNDATION →

Lesson II • Cold Fortress of 'I Told You So'

Doing things right yourself, but lecturing and shaming family members when they stumble.

★ STONE HEARTH OF BROTHERHOOD

High standards and patient work combined with unconditional warmth and mutual rescue.

Lesson I • Straw Carelessness & Panic

Cutting corners on every duty and blaming others when the first difficulty blows in.

Lesson III • Kindness Without Discipline

Everyone hugs and comforts each other, yet nobody fixes the leaky roof before winter.

✦ How to Show Your Child the Map of Four Paths ✦

Point to the four squares together: when we drop either axis—losing either personal responsibility or warmth toward loved ones—we slip into one of the three traps. Only when both axes reach their peak do we enter the Top-Right Quadrant (★), where the whole family wins!

THREE RULES OF A WARM HOME

Psychological & Pedagogical Guide for Parents

Rule 1. Praise 'Stone Effort,' Not Just Fast Speed

When a child checks their work and tidies their desk carefully, call it 'real stone masonry.'

Rule 2. Rescue First, Teach Second

When a child's 'straw hut' collapses, first bring them inside to safety and warm tea—then teach them how to lay bricks.

Rule 3. Build Family Reserves in Sunny Months

Health, sleep, savings, and trust are laid stone by stone long before any storm appears.

✦ Why Fairy-Tale Metaphors Work Faster Than Lectures ✦

Direct scolding triggers defensiveness in a child's brain, whereas a shared fairy-tale image turns correction into a friendly smile: one warm reference to the story's heroes resolves tension in seconds!

EVERYDAY TRANSLATION TABLE FOR PARENTS

How to Replace Scolding with the Language of the Tale

Everyday Moment	Common Trap (Quadrants 1–3)	★ Wise Top-Right Response
Child rushes homework in 5 minutes with mistakes	Tear the page out in anger.	"That looks like a fast straw roof! Let's add two solid stone bricks so the Wolf can't blow it away."
Older sibling mocks younger sibling's mistake	Ignore the teasing.	"Remember the elder brother in the tale: his strength was that he opened his oak door and taught his brothers masonry."
Family puts off health or home maintenance	Wait until something breaks.	"Let's lay one stone in sunny weather this Saturday so winter brings only peace."
